As LineStream's Director of Engineering, you will manage the software development and quality assurance teams, working closely with the CTO, Product Managers, and VP of Marketing. You'll have the opportunity to roll-up your sleeves to solve difficult, technical challenges while also providing technical leadership and managing our team of engineers.

Responsibilities

- Recruit, train, and manage the technical team
- Oversee platform and product development teams and processes
- Expertise in C/C++ programming and experience with software version control and bug tracking systems
- Demonstrated experience with technical reporting and software documentation
- Grasps closed-loop control design, time-domain and frequency-domain derivation, stability analysis (Bode and Nyquist, performance and robustness)
- Manage the implementation of LineStream's quality management system

Requirements

- Track record (5-10 years) of engineering management and software product development.
- Excellent communication skills, including preparing and presenting formal briefs
- Demonstrated experience with designing, implementing, and managing quality assurance systems and documentation
- Experience with customer-facing problem solving including phone, email, and face-to-face support
- Proven organizational, time management, problem solving, and analytical skills
- Detail-oriented, ability to manage multiple tasks in a fast-paced environment with competing priorities, and quick turnaround deliverables
- Bachelor degree required, Master's degree in an engineering discipline preferred

Desired Experience

- Engineering management with early stage, venture-backed companies
- Developing and deploying semiconductor software products
- Design of motor control systems, including field oriented control and current control
- Designing and/or deploying industrial equipment such as drives or programmable logic controllers
- Designing switching mode power supplies
